My Pet's Cushing's Disease

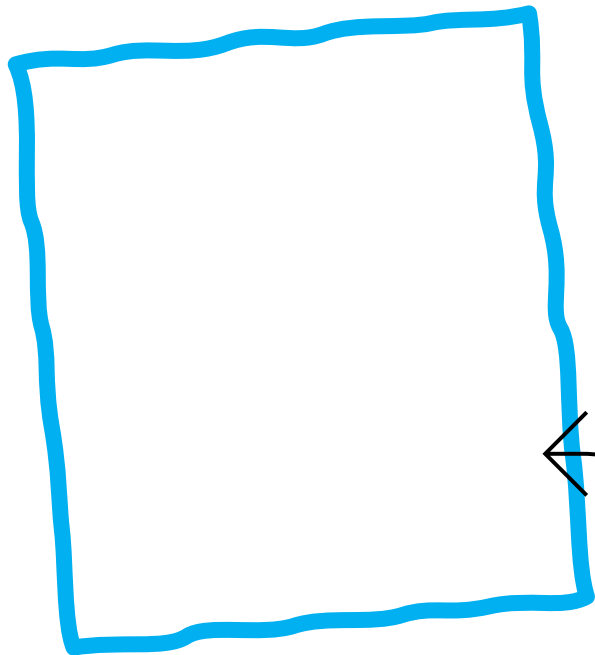

Hello, your vet has told us that your pet been in to visit them.

They have decided that your pet has Cushing's Disease and they have asked us to let you know all about it.

We know when pets are poorly it can be a bit worrying, so we wanted to let you know all about your pet's Cushing's Disease and hopefully make it a lot less scary!

This pack is full of all sorts of things to help you care for your pet!

Why not draw a picture of your pet in the box?

My Pet

What is Cushing's Disease?

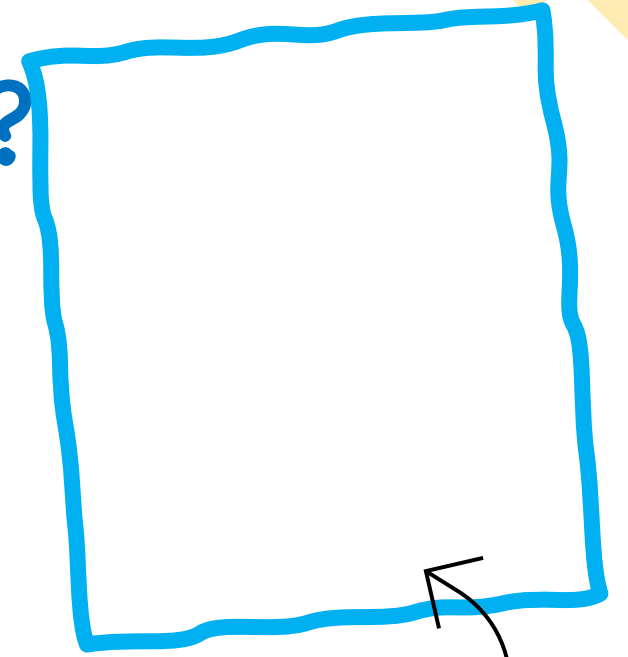

In our pet's body there are two little glands, these look like little peas and make something called cortisone. This is a special word for something that makes their body work properly.

When a pet has Cushing's Disease their glands make too much cortisone which causes a problem.

Cushing's Disease usually will make your pet very thirsty and they will also pee a lot. Their skin may go a bit funny and their hair may fall out.

You might also notice that they are a bit more lazy and plump, this is because everything is mixed up due to their Cushing's Disease.

It's really important to be kind and gentle with your pet. This includes giving your pet space when they need it.

How Can You Help?

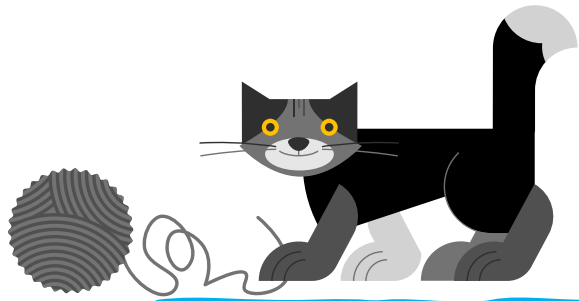

Here are some things that you and your adult can do to help your pet stay happy

- ✓ Let them take their time on walks, if they need to slow down you should let them. Remember they can't help becoming tired easily.
- ✓ Make sure they have enough fresh water. Pets with Cushing's Disease can sometimes be very thirsty. What goes in must come out, this means that pets will need to go out to use the toilet a few times a day.
- ✓ Make sure you are feeding your pet the right amount of food. Although your pet cannot help gaining weight, it is our job as owners to try and keep them from becoming too plump. If a pet is too plump they can get even more ill.
- ✓ Your grown up can make sure your pet takes any medicine they need to help them feel healthy and happy.

Remember to never climb on your pet or pull them around as this may hurt them.

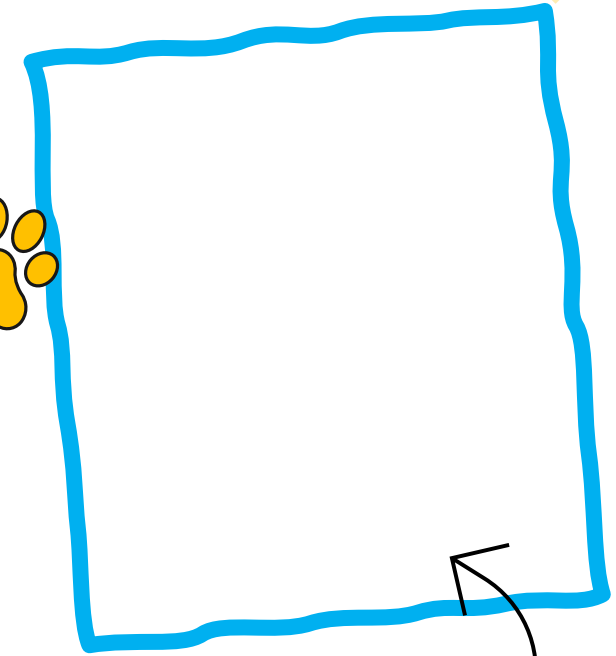

Being Safe with Medicine

Sometimes pets with Cushing's Disease will need to take medicine everyday to stop them making too much cortisone. This medicine has been picked by a vet and is perfect for your pet!

Here are some rules about medicine:

- You must never touch your pet's medicine as it can be dangerous for children.
- Medicine should only be given to your pet by a grown up.
- The medicine for your pet should be kept in a cupboard out of the way.
- If you ever find your pet's medicine, you should tell an adult who can put it away in a safe place.
